Being able to process payroll information instantly and at the touch of a button is critical for St. Patrick's Centre Kilkenny Limited. St. Patrick's Centre was opened in 1966 in Kilkenny at the request of the Department of Health, for the care of children and adults with special needs and it has over 200 employees currently working in the centre. The company was incorporated as a limited company at the start of the 21st century and it a registered charity that provides healthcare for persons with disabilities.

The sector they are in requires that their payroll software will accurately process information quickly whilst saving costs for the payroll department. Eddie Ryan, the Chief Executive at St. Patrick's Centre wanted a payroll system that would offer flexibility, control and save costs. "Having researched the top suppliers of payroll solutions in the Irish marketplace, we chose Megapay from Intelligo Software because it can be easily tailored to meet the needs of our company."

"The straight-forward set up of new and unlimited pay elements, deductions and the creation of reports which can be exported to excel to perform complex calculations at the touch of a button has helped St. Patrick's Centre to run the payroll function effortlessly and efficiently" Eddie added.

When Eddie Ryan was asked how Megapay has addressed their business needs, he responded, "Megapay has the capacity to handle a large volume and variety of pay elements that form a vital part of the State and Semi State Body and the day to day running of our payroll. Megapay has given us the ability to respond swiftly and accurately to all payroll requirements especially those of temporary, part-time and flexi-time workers."
